Who protects workers' safety and health?
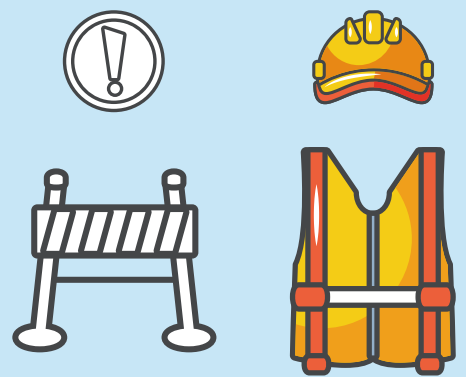

What is OSHA? Why is it important?

Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) protects workers from being killed or seriously harmed at work.

The law requires employers to provide their employees with working conditions that are free of known dangers.

Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) sets and enforces workplace safety and health rules or standards.

OSHA protects all workers, regardless of immigration status.

For more information on OSHA and their services, visit: osha.gov

NENYCOSH
Safe Jobs for ALL